Oil Field Dope

The Best Is None Too Good

From a confidential source your correspondent learns that competent oil men now believe the new Midway pool just south of Hope probably covers about 3,000 acres, with a probable reserve of 3 million barrels of oil, probably 9 billion feet of gas, and extension of the field is apt to be to the south and east.

Army Divided by Roosevelt Into 3 Units

Basic Groups Are Ground Forces, Air Forces, Services of Supply

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt Monday reorganized the army into three basic units to be known as the army ground forces, army air force and services of supply, each in charge of a command general.

The president issued an executive order providing for streamlining the organizations and authorized the secretary of war to create additional overseas departments to embrace the task forces, a base commander, defense command for operations in war theaters and other departments deemed necessary.

To the command of the general army ground forces was transferred the duty and power of the infantry, cavalry, field artillery and coast artillery corps (except those relating to procurement, storage and issue). The functions, duties and power of the commanding generals, general headquarters, airforces (airforce command) and the chief of the air corps was transferred to the commanding general of the army airforce. The commanding general of the new services of supply will take over the duties and power of the chief of coastal artillery, relating to procurement, storage and issue.

Bulletins

NORFOLK, Va. —(AP)— Three Axis submarines combined striking power to sink the American freighter Marvora off the middle Atlantic coast Thursday night, crippling her with one torpedo and riddling her from stem to stern with more than 100 shells. Members of the ships 39-man crew related on safe arrival here later.

By The Associated Press
The Hitler high command gave the German people Monday an inkling of the scope of the Russian counter offensive with the added admission that the Red's armies were fighting only defensively.

The first sentence of the war communique confessing the loss of the initiative said:
"In the Crimea on the Donets front and southeast of Lake Ilmen, defensive fighting continues."
It was one of the broadest admissions thus far of the Red army striking power.

Roberts Well Sends Leasing to Eastward

Frankel's Burns No. 1, Northwest Wildcat, Now Is Important Test

By Special Correspondent
STAMPS, Ark.—C. I. Roberts Bond No. 1 test in the Midway field of Lafayette county, section 11-15-24, direct east offset to the discovery well of that area, flowed Sunday after casing perforations from 6,375 to 6,400 feet with 100 shots, making the fourth producer for the new field.

The test has shown up the most favorable since the discovery, topping the porosity at 6338 feet, a good 100 feet higher than the north offsets.

On the strength of the Roberts test, leasing has turned out eastward with several major oil companies taking blocks in that direction. No official gauge has been made available on the latest producer yet.

A fifth test also looms for the field in Frankel's Burns No. 1, section 10-15-24, extreme northwest offset, which showed excellent pipe line oil on a drill stem test from 6505 to 6513 feet. Top of porosity was 6,477 feet. Production pipe is being run today (Monday).

After the Burns test will probably come the Barnsdall Oil company's Bond No. 3, section 11-15-24, southeast offset, which set production pipe to a total depth of 6,390 feet after topping porosity at 6,373 feet. Arkansas Fuel Oil Company's Creek No. 1, section 10-15-24, west offset, completed last week, was gauged at 170 barrels over a 12-hour period on 5/32 inch choke with no water. Gravity of the oil is 36.5. Tubing pressure is 750 pounds.

Magnolia Petroleum company abandoned its Johnson No. 1, section 11-15-24, northeast offset, after all production attempts failed.

Other activities in the Midway field include:

Barnsdall's Bond No. 2, section 11-15-24, drilling below 5800 feet, Bond No. 4, section 11-15-24, drilling below 5,400 feet, Creek No. 1, section 10-15-24, drilling below 6,000 feet. Dobson No. 1, section 11-15-24 still WOC and Dobson No. 2 is also WOC after plugging back higher for another production attempt after salt water threatened to ruin the test, which came in as the second producer for the field last week.

Reverses Wage, Hour Decision

High Tribunal Says State Courts Have Jurisdiction

LITTLE ROCK —(AP)—The Supreme Court held Monday that state courts had jurisdiction to enforce provisions of the national wage and hour law.

Reversing a Phillips circuit court decision the high tribunal ruled that Pleas Duke of Helena, fare collector for a Mississippi river ferry company operating between Arkansas and Mississippi was covered by provisions of the 1938 federal fair labor law standards act and entitled to a hearing in state courts of wage hour complaint against the Ferry company.

The company contended that state courts could not administer federal wage hour laws.

Senate Passes Huge Military Fund Bill

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The senate passed and sent back to the house a $2,762,737,000 military appropriations bill Monday after being informed by General George C. Marshall that "we proceed with the business of carrying the war to the enemy."

Japs Using Nazi Planes

Little Ground Action Reported in Philippines

WASHINGTON —(AP)—The War Department reported Monday that General Douglas MacArthur's Philippine forces were bombed by enemy planes with unusual markings which "may have been German built."

The raids, made behind the defender's lines on Bataan peninsula, were local and failed to cause damage, the command said.

Three two-engine planes were said to have unusual markings, being painted black with white crosses on the wings.

Japan is believed to have had German-built planes in reserve. Ground operations on the peninsula, meanwhile, dwindled to a virtual standstill in the past 24 hours, the department said.

British Holding Near Rangoon

Japs, However, Believed Massing for New Drive

RANGOON —(AP)— The British command indicated Monday night that its lines were holding unchanged along the Sittoung river facing "growing numbers of Japanese" apparently preparing for a new assault toward Rangoon and Pegu.

Meanwhile the RAF blasted at Japanese positions along the Sittoung, bombing targets and starting fires which were said to be burning fiercely when the British bombers returned to their bases.

"On the Sittoung front there is no change in the military situation," said a communique from general headquarters from Burma. Earlier it was reported that British patrols rushed two Japanese parties in the north, killed most of them and took the rest prisoners.

To Deal With De Gaulle on French Pacific Islands

LONDON —(AP)—The United States has given partial recognition to the Free French rule in the Pacific and is cooperating in the defense of the French islands there, General Charles De Gaulle's headquarters announced Monday. These islands are vital stepping stones along routes to New Zealand and Australia.

The Free French released the statement to the U. S. consul general at Noumea New Caledonia, which declared the U. S. government would deal with Free French authority in effective control of the French island and "with no other French authority."

De Gaulle's French national committee was named officially for the first time as the recognized authority governing the French Pacific possessions, although the U. S. maintains diplomatic relations with the Petain government of Vichy.

Jap Spearhead Said Cut From Shore Base

Dutch Report 27 of 70 Japanese Ships Sunk or Damaged

BANDOENG —(AP)— (By telephone to New York)—Allied counter strokes delivered against Japanese invasion forces wedging into Java were declared officially Monday night to have "developed satisfactorily" but all details of the hard fighting defense was kept secret.

The official war report acknowledged flatly that "the situation in some parts of Java is obviously critical" but added that the invaders were receiving blows, hammers and tongs.

"Up to now," it continued "there is no information received of Fifth Column activities. Everywhere our troops are going out to meet the Japanese."

"Although there is no question of direct threat to Batavia vital objectives are being made useless to exclude all risks," the communique said.

The Dutch and Allied counter moves against the invaders three hard won beachheads were described with these words:

"From well informed circles it was heard that action against Japanese troops developed satisfactorily although in connection with the character of the operations no details can be published. It can be said that the enemy has received fair hits."

Amets reported that up to a short time before midnight there had been no word of any new Japanese landings on the Java coast or of approach of any new invasion armada.

By The Associated Press
Frontally and a flank the United Nations armies in Java strove mightily Monday to smash three Japanese spearhead thrusts into the rich and strategic island and a report suggested that the deepest one of these was sheered off from their shore base.

The immediate goal of the defense was to shatter the invaders before reinforcements from the sea could arrive. The invading forces were said to have suffered enormous losses already.

A special Dutch communique said nearly all Japanese fighters engaged in landing troops and tanks from 20 transports Sunday near Rembang, easternmost of the three invasion points, were sunk in swooping attacks by Dutch planes.

Tanks were fired while being unloaded and fell into the sea. Others were set afire, the Dutch said.

A Reuters dispatch from Bandoeng reporting British troops in action against the foe said there was reason to believe that allied forces had knifed through the supply lines of the Japanese column which had driven 40 miles inland to capture Soehang.

Near Allied Headquarters
Soehang is less than 30 miles north-east of Bandoeng, headquarters of the United Nations command, fell to the Japanese within the first 24-hours of their invasion.

"Japanese troop casualties may be reckoned in the thousands and losses in tanks, armored cars and artillery in the hundreds," wrote the Reuters correspondent, "but they still come on."

"If Allied forces in Java had been about twice as strong the Japanese attack would almost certainly have been doomed to failure," he wrote.

The Dutch command, giving no fresh details on fighting by land, said one motor torpedo boat sunk a Japanese flotilla leader—a large destroyer—by night in the eastern part of the Java sea.

An order of the day to British troops in Java said "the Japanese are likely to be in superior numbers. They fight better when on attack than on defense and therefore our best chance is to attack whenever we can."

As British Imperial, American and Philippines were fighting only a delaying action in Burma and the Philippines the present main effort of the United Nations pivoted on Java Island, keystone to the Indies.

Thousands of Jap Troops
Dutch forces, backbone of the United Nations troops in Java, were straining every effort to check the headlong rush of unknown thousands of Japanese whose transports had run the gauntlet of warships and warplanes to land in the extreme west, middle western and middle eastern parts of Java.

Taxis commanded as troop carriers poured to the front with green-clad soldiers of Queen Wilhelmina mingling with truck and every other available means of road transportation. Fighting raged along the northern coast and inland plains.

The Japanese were bent on smashing the island's three resistance centers, Batavia, Bandoeng and Soerabaja—within the shortest possible time.

The Dutch reported that warships and planes of the United Nations in

A Lesson in How to Beat Down Bores

HOLLYWOOD — It's obvious Dean Durbin wasn't joking during the quarrel with her studio, but she's just the gal who could have done it. None of her movie roles to date has reflected more than the least fraction of the impish quality that hides behind her proper-young-maternalist demeanor. Half of Hollywood, for instance, believes her, walk-out from Universal was partly due to resentment of Charles Laughton in "It Started With Eve" and a belief that he had stolen the picture.

Today I heard about the squabbles of Bob Cummings, Laughton and Miss Durbin, and my informant was one Clyde Holloman, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Holloman.

Mrs. Tulley Henry has returned to her home in Cushing, Okla., following a visit in the home of Mrs. J. A. Henry.

Miss Mary Lenley left Monday morning for Little Rock to visit her sister, Mrs. Fred Ellis, and Mr. Ellis.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Bolls and Mrs. Troy Bolls spent Sunday in Pine Bluff with Troy Bolls.

Personal Mention

From the University of Arkansas news bureau comes the announcement that Misses Mary Wilson and Nancy Hill students at the University of Arkansas, have been initiated into Chi Omega sorority. Miss Wilson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Wilson, and Miss Hill is the daughter of Mrs. Clyde Hill.

Major and Mrs. Werner C. Strecker and daughter, Ruth, departed for Topeka, Kansas Sunday morning.

A WORLD IS SHATTERED

CHAPTER XVII

"Do you love me, Cassie?"

He felt her stiffen. Her voice was thin and colorless as she answered.

"I don't know, Parris."

"Never mind, honey, never mind. If you don't want to say it—but somehow I guess I just want you to say the words."

She stood quite still as though his question had somehow taken away her power to move or think. There was, he thought, almost a look of horror on her face.

"Never mind, Cassie darling, I—"

"Please don't say it, Parris. Everything is perfect until we try to talk about it. Don't try to understand me."

She was something to him that escaped clear definition. All that he and Cassie were to each other seemed to have its existence in a separate world—a world of their own in which they were accountable only to each other. It was like—some almost forgotten words came easily to his mind—it was like his and Renee's "secret lake."

It was still dark when they reached the gate on Cherry street. He kissed her. "Good night—my sweetheart."

PARRIS' heart grew heavier and colder with every step. He did not wish to go home. He felt shut out of it.

He went slowly up the terrace steps and to his room. He had been there but a few minutes when Anna knocked and opened the door.

"Ach, Parris, you are here!" Parris sprang to his feet.

"She is she—"

Anna looked out of the window at the coming dawn. "Hasn't known anything. I called for you, but you were not here. I thought maybe—I hoped, Parris, maybe it would be over before you came in."

Parris did not answer. He was not even thinking. This was the hour.

"Parris, I think maybe you better come now."

Madame was propped high on her pillows.

"Anna. She is asleep?" Suddenly a low rasping sound grated through the room. Parris started with a kind of terror. He had heard that sound once before.

"Anna! The whisper was wrenched from him. Parris clenched his hands. "Anna—stop it—some way!"

Anna laid her hands on his shoulder. "Listen to me, Parris. This could go on for many hours.

I think—I think I cannot stand it. Listen to me, my child—if I take the pillow from under her head she will die quickly. Think now—it is for you to say."

"The color left his face. He looked back at Madame and then, very slowly, back to Anna. He nodded slowly.

"Yes," he said. "Quickly."

Very gently Anna removed the pillows and dropped them on the floor.

Presently a long, hesitant sigh fluttered on Madame's lips, and stopped.

"You go now," Anna said quietly.

THE week after Madame von Elm's funeral, Parris made necessary arrangements with Colonel Skeffington and Patterson Laves of the Burton County Bank about his funds, the sale of the property. Then, leaving Anna in charge of the sale, he moved in with Drake McHugh.

PARRIS was sorting and packing books. He sat back on his heels and wiped his face on his sleeve.

"It's been awfully good of you, Drake, to take me in—just now."

"I wanted you to stay here. I wish you wouldn't go away at all."

"You haven't said anything about Louise."

"Ain't seen her—to talk to her—since that day you came along."

"You're not fair to her."

"How do you figure that out?"

"Well, she can't follow you around and try to see you."

Parris reached for a pillow and put it under his head. "Gee, I'm too tired to get up from here."

"You've had a pretty big day, kid. Take it easy. . . . Listen! What's that?"

"I hear someone running up the drive."

Parris sat up. There was a rush of steps on the long side porch, then a quick knock at the door. Drake opened it, and Cassandra Tower came into the room. She was out of breath and a little disheveled.

"Cassie! What's up?"

"I've got to talk to you a minute."

Drake wheeled a chair forward. "Sit down, Cassie."

She looked at him and nodded but remained standing.

Parris stared curiously at Cassandra. She had that look he had seen a few times before—desperate—a sort of shocked desperation.

"Sit down, Cassie. What's the matter?"

"Parris—you remember the other night?"

Danny Kaye's Silent Partner

Two-Year Rise of Comic Wasn't Luck—Here's Why

By ADELAIDE KERR
Wide World Feature Writer
Sylvia Fine has turned the trick that is every wife's aim.

She helped bring her husband success and fame.

When she and Danny Kaye were married two years ago, they had $40 and no jobs. Today Danny is star of the Broadway musical hit "Let's Face It," and his rollicking singing and pantomime lays 'em in the aisles.

Broadway's wise boys will tell you Danny "has what it takes" himself. But they also know some of his biggest hits have been in sketches co-authored by his wife and accompanied by her at the piano, and that she coached him, advised him and stood by when the going was stiff. Danny tells 'em.

She gets the credit
He never takes a certain call after a benefit without saying, "I'll like to introduce someone without whose help I wouldn't be here—Sylvia Fine, my wife."

Sylvia Fine was not born to show business. She was the daughter of a Brooklyn dentist. She was whisked through high school and Brooklyn College and expected to be a concert pianist—strictly Carnegie Hall. But the clever verse she wrote for her college newspaper and her father's advice steered her on another course. She modeled her verse into songs and worked in a summer children's camp as dramatic counselor. Eventually she worked with Max Liebman, director of the summer theater at Camp Tammam, Pa., and began a writing collaboration which lasts to this day. Then at the Sunday Night Theater of the Hotel Marlborough Plaza in New York she met Danny Kaye, who had triumphed for 10 years in the midwest and Orient, but meant nothing in Broadway's life.

No love at first sight
Recently Sylvia, seated in their New York apartment, told the story of their acquaintance, marriage and climb. Told it in a voice with a curious quite humility which never advanced itself.

"When I saw Danny first I didn't like him one bit—his clothes, his demeanor—but I did recognize his amazing talent and versatility. So I called Max and said, 'I've found a genius. He's covered with circuit corn and cheap theatrical tricks, but there's pure gold underneath.' Max agreed with me when he saw him. Danny's clothes and his haircut, consulted about his technique. Gradually Danny came to have more and more faith in my judgment. And he was wonderful—never resented a criticism."

In time the three worked together in "Straw Hat Revue," which marked Danny's first Broadway appearance. It closed and he went to Florida for a holiday with other members of the cast. But he had not been there long before he telephoned Sylvia "I never missed anyone so much in my life. Come down." She did—and they were married on the $40 stake. Back in New York they went to their separate homes and told their families nothing.

Nightclub next
Then Sylvia persuaded Danny to try nightclub work—from which he had shied—helped him get a contract, wrote some of his sketches and accompanied him at the club "La Martiniere." He proved a whopping success. So, for the benefit of their families they were married all over again.

"Well, flowers and striped pants," Mrs. Kaye still coaches and advises Danny and (in collaboration with Liebman) writes a number of his sketches—two of which are hits in the current show.

She does a lot besides. Fusses over his food, admires his new suits, doesn't wear veils or earrings because he doesn't like them, tells him when he is good, and when his ties are terrible. Whenever she talks about him her conversation is peppered with references to "his wonderful talent," "his amazing versatility," "his great sense of comedy."

Talking about her the other day a Broadway wit wistfully, "I guess that's one wife who thinks her husband's funny."

We are planning on painting our church in side. We have already raised about half enough money. We want to do something to get the rest of the money and get it painted soon.

Miss Hays was with us and she gave an interesting talk on "Food-for-the-Family." We all regret her leaving us. I think I can speak for the whole club in wishing her success in her work. We all learned to love her very much.

Our Club will meet with Mrs. Benie Walston in March, April Mrs. Luther Westfall, May Mrs. J. Mark Jackson, June Mrs. J. P. Hutson, July Mrs. Dora Pierce, August, Mrs. Bennie Orr. We will send the rest in later.

What Happens Aboard an Aircraft Carrier in a Real Battle

"PILOTS, MAN YOUR PLANES!"—The action order sounds . . . planes, ready for takeoff, get final check by mechanics . . . pilots rush up from below-decks as carrier's objective—Jap bases on Marshal and Gilbert Islands—comes within striking distance.

TAKEOFF—A plane speeds down the deck runway. It will return to reload with cartridge belts ready on deck. Sailors stand by to give instant service to fighters returning from battle.

GETAWAY—A successful take-off — and the carrier-based Navy plane rears over the sea to carry the fight to the foe.

NO IDLE CHATTER—The chatter of anti-aircraft guns spells death for Jap planes trying to bomb carrier. A-A marksmen force foe to fly high, thus protecting planes going into action.

QUICK TURN-AROUND — U. S. Navy bombers, having reached their objective and blasted it swiftly fly back to carrier for more bombs and another trip out. Above, sailor trundles bombs toward newly-returned plane at right.

Income Tax Time Is Nearer

Uncle Sam Wants Only What's Due From Taxpayers

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Wide World Features Writer

WASHINGTON—About 5,000,000 new members will be induced—like it or not—into the federal income tax club this year.

The government plays no Santa Clause role in this income tax business but it wants to make things as easy as possible for these new taxpayers. The same goes for 7,500,000 old contributors and 8,500,000 other persons who file returns but escape paying taxes because of legitimate deductions.

Uncle Sam expects you to report all of your income, but he also wants you to take every permissible deduction and exemption. You can be on the level with your government and fair to yourself too.

The big A in the ABC's of income tax returns is to remember that every single person whose gross income amounted to $750 or more, and every married person whose gross income was $1,500 or more in 1941 must file a return.

Don't wait for the government to send you a return form. The forms may be obtained from collectors of internal revenue in the larger cities and towns.

The first, and probably the most important, money-saving step is to consider carefully whether it will be better to make out a return on the older, more complete form 1040 or on the new, simplified form 1040A.

You may use either form if your gross income is $3,000 or less and is from salary, wages, other compensation for personal services, dividends, interest, annuities, rent or royalties.

For a majority of small-income taxpayers, the use of one form or the other will mean only a difference of a dollar or two. Thousands, however, will save a tidy sum if they figure out which form is more advantageous.

In any case, don't delay too long in making out your return. You will want to take all the deductions possible in this year of heavily increased taxation. You may save money as well as avoid worry and confusion by doing the job when you have plenty of time to do it thoroughly and accurately.

How Your Tax Has Jumped! Here are comparisons of typical federal income tax levies this year compared with those of 1941. The table assumes that all income is earned.
